MARIN STUDENTS RACE ALONG IN FOOT-WEARY 50-MILE HIKE

Heavy Dropouts Start At Taylor State Park

By PHIL FRADKIN

It began in the dark at 5 a.m. today after a pep talk which drew cheers from about 400 Redwood High School students about to set off on a 50-mile hike shod in everything from hiking boots to slippers.

Three and one-half hours later, and some 18 miles farther on at Samuel Taylor State Park, shoes were taken off and feet were soaked in water as parents began arriving to pick up the first drop-outs.

In between, the students, accompanied by eight Marines, conquered White's Hill on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard without a single drop-out, despite the carefully designed strategy of Marine Capt. Clark Henry and student body president James Troppmann.

At the pep rally, Troppmann promised the 15-minute rest during the first hour. The first rest, five minutes, was taken in Ross. The second five-minute rest was one mile west of Fairfax. The third was at the park.

Captain Henry, inspector-instructor of the 23rd Marines, Marin County's Marine Reserve unit, said, "We planned it that way to drop the deadwood out."

But there weren't many drop-outs as the vanguard of the disorganized hike passed Olema at 10 a.m. and headed on to the halfway point at Point Reyes Station. By noon, more than 50 had passed Point Reyes Station.

The students met at Redwood shortly before the departure time of 5 a.m. to meet the challenge that President John F. Kennedy gave Marin Corps officers: to walk 50 miles within 20 hours. It was believed to be the largest group in the nation to attempt it.

Such cardboard signs as "Veni, Vidi, Vici," "Hoof and Hope," "50 Miles With Vigah," and "Republicans for Physical Fitness" fluttered bravely in the early morning breeze as the students set out with Marine Cpl. Donald Grove out front with a red flag and flashlight attached to his cap as the safety man.

SEEKS ORDER
At the outset, the students were organized into 12 companies of from 30 to 35 apiece with a football player, clad in a red jersey, at the head of each company.

Five minutes after the start, Captain Henry halted the 300-yard procession to get "some semblance of order." From there on, it was hopeless.

The students walked north on Drake Boulevard through Kentfield and Ross in a double file on each side of the road. Some walked up the middle of the road, others strayed from side to side.

CHEWING TOBACCO
Commented Sgt. Robert Richmond through his wad of chewing tobacco, "I sure get a kick out of those kids walking hand-in-hand." Some students held hands on the hike while others made it up White's Hill with their arms around each other.

The Hub intersection was reached by the leaders at 6:30 a.m., Fairfax at 6:30 and the top of White's Hill at 7 a.m., making the start of the hike a 4-mile-per-hour pace. The first hiker to reach the state park, a distance of about 18 miles, arrived at 8:20 a.m.

Motorists in Fairfax and Lagunitas complained to the California Highway Patrol about hikers in the middle of the road. CHP Officer Joseph Kendrick repeatedly warned students to walk on the shoulder of the road. As soon as he

FAIRFAX SCHOOLS SEEK EXPANSION

Trustees of the Fairfax School District, in a special meeting Saturday afternoon, launched a school expansion program that calls for construction of three new classrooms, purchase of land for a new school, and a half-million dollar bond issue.

Fairfax voters will probably be asked to approve the bond measure sometime in June.

Passage of the bond issue would also keep the district eligible for state loans. These are available to districts that are bonded at capacity (five per cent of their total assessed valuation). The state loan program also assists in paying bond interest.

The three new classrooms, estimated at about $75,000, will be added to the six classrooms at Deer Park School. The new site, from 12 to 15 acres in the undeveloped area west of the city, is expected to cost around $150,000. This would be a school for sixth, seventh and eighth graders.

Bonded indebtedness of the district was $221,000 at the beginning of the current fiscal year. A $500,000 bond issue, Continued on page 9

Rafferty Supports Book Plan

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Dr. Maxwell Rafferty, state superintendent of public instruction, announced today he would back, "under all circumstances," a bill to provide for multiple adoption of state textbooks for elementary and junior high schools.

The bill, by Assemblyman Gordon Winston (D-Merced) would permit the State Board of Education to adopt a list of books for every subject from which local districts could choose a preferred text.

Rafferty told a news conference that the legislation would not affect the operation of the state printing plant and should not increase the cost of textbooks.

"I don't give a hang what it costs," he said. "I couldn't care less. I want good books and California is a wealthy enough state to afford good books."

The superintendent said he had not discussed his position with the state board, but he was satisfied their goals on textbooks are the same. The board in 1961 opposed the Winston bill.

Rafferty said he felt the Winston bill is "the most important single bill on schools to come before the legislature this year . . . I plan to give it a majority of my time."

Weekend Storm Drops 2 Inches Of Rain

The weekend storm moved quietly southeast today after leaving more than two inches of rain in parts of Marin County, but another front still at sea appeared headed toward Northern California.

Cloudy skies were predicted for tomorrow with possible rain in the middle of the week.

The most recent storm yielded only moderate amounts of rain overnight, most of it having fallen by yesterday morning.

The heaviest rainfall recorded in Marin for the storm was 2.2 inches at Lagunitas Lake. All the dams in Marin were reported overflowing today.

Readings this morning were Sausalito .30, Belvedere .18, Tamalpais Valley .11, Mill Valley .25, Chevy Chase (Larkspur) .05, San Anselmo .05, Woodacre .03, Point Reyes fire station .11, and Novato a trace.

Kroegers' Attorney Blows Up

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—There was a new outburst today at the stormy double-murder trial of Iva and Ralph Kroeger.

It came from defense attorney Emmet Hagerty, when he tried unsuccessfully to get into the record a written report by John Coffman, a sheriff's inspector of Santa Rosa. The report expressed belief that Mr. and Mrs. Jay Arneson, operators of a Santa Rosa motel, had left on a trip.

That was before the strangled bodies of the Arnesons were dug up in the Kroeger basement.

"I'm tired of objections that are nonsensical," Hagerty shouted when Francis Mayer, assistant district attorney, opposed getting the report into the record.

The trial judge upheld introduction of the report as irrelevant in view of finding the basement graves.

Mrs. Kroeger, whose outbursts have repeatedly interrupted the trial, was all smiles as she watched the exchange.

Coffman was among the first defense witnesses.

Schools, All But One City Hall Due Holiday

Tomorrow will be a holiday in Marin for all schools, county and state offices and all but one city hall.

All city governments except Larkspur will observe the state holiday. Larkspur has an ordinance specifying eight annual holidays, excluding Lincoln's Birthday.

Post offices and other federal government offices will be open tomorrow. But parking meters will be idle. Prisoners at San Quentin will not have to report for work details. The Marin County Board of Supervisors will meet Wednesday instead of tomorrow as regularly scheduled.

Some schools in Marin had a bonus holiday today in addition to Lincoln's Birthday. Schools closed both days in Tamalpais High School, Tomales High School, Kentfield, Mill Valley, Reed, Ross, San Anselmo, West Marin and Tomales Bay districts.

The Independent-Journal will publish as usual tomorrow.

Chinatown Balloons Invade Quentin

Not "pennies from heaven" but toy balloons believed from San Francisco's Chinatown drifted over the grim walls of San Quentin Prison yesterday and were snatched gleefully by eager inmates.

Total captured was about 150, many coming in bunches and believed to have blown away from vendors at Chinatown's Saturday night celebration of the new Year of the Hare, according to associat- Warden Walter D. Achuff. And this little story has a mighty happy ending. The prisoners pooled their catch. Every balloon left the prison in the custody of an excited child. For each young- ster of the many families mak- ing a Sunday call on some prisoner was given one of the gay-colored little spheroids.

Architecture For Apartments Due Scrutiny Of San Rafael Planners

Architectural approval for a 33-unit apartment on Channing Way and a 38-unit construction on Novato Street will be among new items for consideration of the San Rafael Planning Commission at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

The first building is to be on the east side lot No. 32 of the Marin Professional Center Unit 3, projected by Ross E. Kelly and William Atkinson. The other, planned by Spero Spiliotis and Co., will comprise seven fourplexes and two five-plexes.

The commission is again to discuss rezoning land within a 1,000-foot radius of the San Rafael Sanitation District Treatment Plant. Now unclassified, this land is to be given industrial or commercial zoning compatible with the proximity of the treatment plant.

Son Of Visiting Couple Dies

Artificial respiration by a fire department resuscitator squad last night failed to save the life of a seven-week-old baby, son of a San Francisco couple visiting in Corte Madera.

Firemen went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Long at 23 Mohawk Avenue and tried to revive Kenneth, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard G. Millard.

Mrs. Long said the baby, lying on a bed, appeared to be all right until 9:30 p.m. when the mother checked and noted he had quite breathing. The baby was taken by police to Marin General Hospital where he was dead on arrival.

Runaway Seattle Girls Are Taken In Mill Valley

Three runaway Seattle girls were taken into custody today by Mill Valley police after reportedly stealing a car from one girl's parents and fleeing to California. The girls, cousins, were "flat broke and hungry," said police chief Dan Terzich.

Helene McClymont, 13, was booked in county jail on suspicion of car theft. The other girls, 17 and 16, were placed in juvenile hall. Seattle authorities were notified and the girls are expected to be picked up by their parents, said Terzich.

Police said the girls had been caught shoplifting in a Seattle department store. Their parents scolded them and the girls took a 1962 yellow Thunderbird from the 17-year-old's parents and headed south Saturday.

Miss McClymont had once lived in Mill Valley and Mill Valley police were alerted. Officers John Castellani and Doug Stone spotted the Thunderbird at 9:30 a.m. today at a service station at Miller and Montford Avenues.

Foot-Weary Students Making Long Hike

passed, they strayed into the middle again.

Leaders of the hike claimed no one was responsible for the students. Troppmann said it was not a school function. Captain Henry, examining a healthy blister at the state park, said, "We were invited by Troppmann to set a pace; that's all we are doing."

However, the students, who included some youths from other high schools and College of Marin, were not lacking for aid. Friends and parents in cars followed the procession closely. The highway patrol had three cars standing by; police slowed down commuter traffic and the Marines had a three-quarter ton truck following with a first aid man driving.

Peggy Carson, a Redwood junior, claimed to be the first drop-out. She said she quit in Ross because "they went too fast; I didn't want to be the last one."

But an 8-year-old girl was still going strong at Woodacre. Mrs. Madge Aylwyn of Greenbrae and her daughter Judy, 8, said, "We got pretty tired an hour ago but now we're doing better." Judy was following her three brothers, student at Redwood High School and College of Marin, who were about two miles ahead.

Approaching the state park, the hikers had strung out in small clusters seven miles from first to the last. There was no front or rear to the hike as all attempts at organization had failed. About a fourth had dropped out by that time.

The Marines, who by this point were just trying to keep up with the student leaders who were four miles in front, complained that the students "are making a mockery of the hike."

Cars, loaded with students, were traversing the procession, picking up stragglers in the rear and dumping them near the front. The Marines were keeping a steady two and one-mile per hour pace, determined to outlast the faster hikers.

Gas stations and stores along the line of march were deluged with requests for water, toilet facilities, and candy. Stores in the area of Redwood High School ran short of candy, which was the food recommended for the hikers by the Marines. The Bon Air Market candy counter was cleared out yesterday.

Four Redwood senior girls operated a supply wagon out of their convertible until the car was stalled because of a dead battery in the state park.

Diane Hartman, Louise Abbott, Judy Coy and Dawn Urbais handed out water, candy, oranges, band aids, corn plasters, and sandwiches to passing hikers. Many of the students trudged along with their lunches in brown paper bags banging at their sides.

Diana Heller, 15, of Tiburon, clad in white sneakers and a frilled blouse, said she went on the hike "to prove that we can do it." To Brian McQueen, 19,

Youth, 15, Gashed On Nose During Fight At Dance

A fight at a dance in Santa Venetia sent a teen-aged boy to the hospital with a severe gash on his nose on Feb. 2, it was disclosed today.

The victim, Gregory Lewis Mason, 15, of 751-A Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, San Anselmo, had four stitches taken to close the wound.

Sheriff's Deputy Edward A. Koehn, who was on duty at the dance at the VFW Hall in Santa Venetia, said Gregory staggered out of the dance hall about 11:30 p.m. The officer took him to Marin General Hospital.

The boy said he had tried to stop a fight involving one of his friends. He told them to "break it up," and another older youth hit Gregory on the nose and face.

of Tiburon, it was "a refreshing walk."

Ben Selfridge, a junior, and Jeff Garrison, a senior at Redwood, leaders of the hike up White's Hill, said they were going so fast because "we want to make it in a shorter time."

As the hikers headed into the afternoon, highway patrol officers and Marin County reserve sheriff's deputies began to worry about stragglers and the hikers tonight. They urged parents to pick up their children before dark. Motorists were urged to drive carefully.

The hikers will follow a course from Point Reyes Station, east to Nicasio Dam, climb the Nicasio Pass and return to Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in the San Geronimo Valley. A last lap around the Redwood parking lot will make it 50 miles.

Captain Clark Henry guessed that all his Marines would complete the hike, along with about one per cent of the girls and five per cent of the boys who started.

Young Hicks told Sheriff's Deputy Herick E. Morgan that he got a case of mumps, his buddy became homesick, and neither could find work. They drove back Saturday afternoon.

He was driving the car when his brother, Dennis Arnold Bradshaw, 21, robbed the liquor store. The elder Bradshaw is serving a prison term for the robbery.

JFK HIKES SOME, TOO

Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy Hikes 50 Miles In 17 Hours

WASHINGTON (AP)—It was a vigorous weekend on the New Frontier. President John F. Kennedy took his wife on three short hikes and Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy walked 50 miles in 17 hours—all in the cause of physical fitness.

Ethel Kennedy, the attorney general's wife, added to the aura of vitality by declaring she'd welcome twins to the busy routine of her family of seven.

But Ethel, who is expecting her eighth child in June, added there is no medical evidence to indicate twins are in the offing.

The one discordant note was sounded by Joan Kennedy, wife of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy (D-Mass.) Joan wrote in Look magazine that the President, because of persistent back trouble, can barely pick up his 2-year-old son, Jr.

Reporting that young John now weighs about 35 pounds, the White House said "the President's back is improving but his son is getting heavier."

If Kennedy's back is slowing him down, this wasn't evident yesterday during his three walks with the first lady.

Kennedy set such a brisk pace that it almost seemed he was training for a 50-mile hike of his own.

Fifty miles became a magic number on the New Frontier after Kennedy learned about a 1908 executive order in which President Theodore Roosevelt proclaimed this distance an appropriate fitness tests for Marine officers.

At the president's suggestion, 20 Marines will take the Roosevelt test at Camp Lejeune tomorrow. On Friday, volunteers from the White House staff and press corps will embark on a similar expedition.

Robert Kennedy jumped the gun on these endeavors Saturday by walking 50 miles from Washington toward Thurmont, Md. The 37-year-old attorney general was accompanied by four aides who faltered before the finish line.

The attorney general reached his destination at 11 p.m., attended a 9 a.m. Roman Catholic Mass the next morning, and then went ice skating.

President Kennedy and the First Lady started their walking binge in New York, where they spent a weekend of theater-going, fancy eating and partying.

After attending at 12:30 p.m. Mass in uptown Manhattan, the Kennedys and her sister, Lee Radziwill, hiked three blocks down Park Avenue to a fashionable French restaurant, Voisin. Lee had to trot at one point to keep up.

The president had a training-table portion of steak at the restaurant and Mrs. Kennedy dined on eggs benedict. Then the threesome set out again, this time walking five blocks up Park Avenue.

Returning to Washington just before dusk, the presidential limousine pulled to the curb about a quarter-mile from the White House and the Kennedys emerged for their third walk. The route lay across the park south of the executive mansion, with the grass soggy enough to present a problem for Mrs. Kennedy in her high-heeled shoes. Kennedy took her arm to help her.

Through all this walking, with temperatures in the high 30s, Kennedy was bareheaded and wore no topcoat. He carried a hat which he waved at startled pedestrians and motorists who, spying him, gave a honk or a holler.

More than 20 million dollars worth of candles is sold in the United States each year.

Amateur Cutting Horse Group Forming

Marin County is about to become the amateur cutting horse capital of California.

A group of Bay Area horse owners, chiefly Marin residents, have filed for the formation of a non-profit corporation to be called the Golden Gate Cutting Horse Assn., with headquarters in Greenbrae, the residence of secretary-treasurer Alvin Schultz.

The group's president, Dr. Edwin Boero, San Anselmo dentist, said the organization's aim will be to stimulate the training of cutting horses.

The cutting horse, traditionally mount of the American cowboy, traces its lineage to stock brought to North America by the English colonists. Small, hardy and agile, the cutting horse is a sprinter, bred and noted for high intelligence, and is named for its duty of "cutting" cattle from a herd. The same stock produces polo ponies and quarter mile racehorses, or quarterhorses.

Dr. Boero said the association plans to hold its first contest on Feb. 24 at the Circle V corral of the Smith Brothers Ranch.

Bi-monthly league contests and state finals will be held annually, using the rules of the National Cutting Horse Assn. The group's 40 members belong to the national association and the Pacific Coast Cutting Horse Assn., and the new group may affiliate nationally.

There has been no state organization for amateur cutting horse owners, the Pacific group being for professionals as well, said Dr. Boero.

He said membership is expected to grow to about 200 or 250, and is open on a statewide basis.

Edward Smith of Smith

Brothers Ranch, San Rafael, is vice president of the group. Directors are Arnold Dolcini of Chileno Valley, Arthur Wanlass of Richmond, Fred Fischer of San Rafael, J. M. Grant of San Anselmo and Lee Vinson of Richmond.

Mother, Child Fall From Auto; Minor Injuries

A San Francisco mother, with a small child in her arms, fell out of a station wagon rounding a curve on San Pedro Road yesterday, but escaped with minor injury.

William R. Keller, 26, a machine servicer in San Francisco, westbound on San Pedro Road 3-2 miles east of Highway 101 at 1:10 p.m. when the right door of his car opened as the car swung around a curve to the left.

His wife Yvonne, 25, tumbled out with a child in her arms but was evidently able to shield the infant. Mrs. Keller was treated at Marin General Hospital for minor cuts and bruises. The hospital had no record concerning the child but it was mentioned in a California Highway Patrol report.

"There goes another of our traveling salesmen"

Put one of our new Mercurys in a snow-storm and everyone it passes will quickly get the point of that new roofline and rear window. It doesn't collect snow or ice!

All clear! If you take a close look at the cruising Mercury, notice side vents and windows are closed. Yet the driver is nice and relaxed. Not hunched over the wheel wondering what's coming up from the rear, or frantically wiping steam off side-windows. By lowering the automatic rear window just a bit, Mercury's exclusive Flo-Thru Ventilation system discharges all that stale, steamy air out the back.

What will summer bring? Heat. Dust. Glare. And another Mercury sales point. For when the weather heats up, you can roll down all the windows, including the rear Breezeway, and duplicate the refreshing turbulence of a convertible. But over the long haul, windnoise can be grueling. So roll up everything except the rear Breezeway. Fresh air moves in via front cowl vents and wafts through the car, clearing out the heat and cigar smoke. Without disturbing a hair on your head. (And heads in the rear seat are protected from the sun, thanks to the elegant eave that extends out over the rear window. This roofline provides more headroom, too).

Is that all? Not by a long shot. What your eye misses when a new Mercury drives past could well be the subject of a 15-minute demonstration on a nearby freeway (anytime you wish).

BOUND FOR A WEDDING—At left on St. Vincent's Hill, north of San Rafael, is a station wagon in which a happy Ignacio party had started south to attend a wedding Saturday afternoon. In drenching rain, the sedan at the right skidded across the divider from the northbound lane and slammed broadside into the wagon. Three persons in each vehicle needed hospital attention and the three Ignacians were still in San Rafael General Hospital today. (Independent-Journal photo)

Smooth Tires, Wet Roads Add Up To 14 Injured

Unsafe smooth tires skidding in heavy rain Saturday afternoon and Sunday morning were linked by the California Highway Patrol with four automobile accidents injuring 14 persons in Marin County.

Patrol officers urged that all drivers obtain new tires promptly if their present tires show signs of excessive wear.

Six persons were hurt, four seriously, in the first of the series of crashes at 12:15 p.m. Saturday on Highway 101 a half mile north of the Marinwood overpass. A northbound car skidded across the divider to strike a southbound vehicle carrying a family to a wedding. Dennis Chin, 21, Oakland shipping clerk, was driving toward Hamilton Air Force Base to deliver his friend, Airman 3/c Kenneth Hom, 21, who lives at the base. He told the patrol his car skidded as he started up St. Vincent's Hill in the center lane.

He braked hard. The car swung broadside across the divider to ram a southbound station wagon driven by Chapin Coit, 46, of 461 Alameda del Prado, Ignacio, a real estate salesman for the Draper Co. Coit was kept in San Rafael General Hospital with many severe cuts and bruises, as was his wife, Barbara, 37, who suffered severe head injuries and leg cuts, and their stepson, Curtis G. Rutter, 15, who suffered multiple cuts.

Mrs. Coit's condition today was fair, her husband was in good condition. Young Rutter was expected to be released late today or tomorrow.

Diane Dong, 19, of San Francisco, one of the passengers in the Chin car, was treated at the same hospital for multiple cuts and bruises. Chin and Hom were treated at the air base hospital for cuts and bruises.

Chin was cited on charges of unsafe speed and driving with unsafe "bald" tires. Coit, recently from Texas, was cited because he lacked a California driver's license.

Two men suffered minor injuries on the Lucas Valley Road four and one-half miles west of Highway 101 at 2:55 p.m. in a collision on a curve. Phillip De Vere Devel Jr. of Berkeley, a University of California programmer, later said that while driving west he was confronted by a car coming toward him across the center line.

John S. Zents, Daly City seaman, said his car had skidded out of its lane in heavy rain. The two cars met. Zents and his companion, Kenneth Zents, suffered face cuts including a cut chin for the driver. Both were treated at San Rafael General Hospital.

The patrol cited Zents for driving to the left of a center line.

James L. Elder of 170 Sacramento Avenue, Mill Valley, a theater projectionist, suffered internal injuries as well as cuts and bruises in a collision on Highway 101 near the Marin City off-ramp at 5:10 p.m. Saturday. He was in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital.

He was driving south as was Virgil Lee Hobbs, Sacramento metal finisher. The Hobbs car went into a skid. In trying to avoid it Elder also put his car into a skid.

The patrol cited Hobbs on charges of intoxication, causing an injury accident, unsafe speed, and unsafe lane change.

Five were hurt in an unusual Golden Gate Bridge accident just before noon yesterday in which one car crossed the middle line, reversed, and hit another.

During a heavy downpour

Stephen C. Hogrefe, 16, of 90 Corte Toluca, Greenbrae, a Redwood High School student, entered the bridge southbound with several passengers. His car's rear tires skidded and the vehicle did a half-turn, hitting a northbound car driven by George P. Campanelle of San Francisco, owner-manager of Louis-George Men's Wear in the Corte Madera Shopping Center.

Campanelle was treated at Marin General Hospital for cuts of the nose, lips and eyelid. Hogrefe and his sister Carole were also treated. Hogrefe for a sprained back and Miss Hogrefe for cuts and bruises. At the same hospital John Cacianti of 88 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Ross, passenger in the Hogrefe car, was in satisfactory condition recovering from a deep scalp cut.

Blake Chapman of 32 Corte Morada, Greenbrae, riding in the Campanelle car, was treated at San Francisco General Hospital for face cuts and possible concussion.

PEDESTRIAN IS HIT; DRIVER UNKNOWN

A public appeal was made by the California Highway Patrol today for information as to the identity of an automobile driver responsible for serious injury of a pedestrian on Highway 101 almost opposite the patrol office in south San Rafael Saturday night.

Sole evidence concerning the car which struck down Willis Edward Herring, 23-year-old San Francisco Negro, was a broken radio antenna found near where Herring's body lay on the west shoulder of the roadway, his left leg broken in two places. Herring is believed to have been hitchhiking to his home in San Francisco, an hour after release from Marin county jail.

Sole known witnesses to the accident at 6:05 p.m. were Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Valine of 355 Canal Street, San Rafael, who were driving north on East Francisco Boulevard and heard the sound of an impact on the freeway.

They glanced over in time to see a man's body soaring up in the air in jackknifed posture.

Herring was found lying unconscious. One shoe had been knocked off.

His identity was established from papers in his pocket, which showed he had just been released from Marin County Jail. He had served two days for failure to answer a summons last September which charged he had no driver's license in his possession.

Herring's condition was reported as fair today at San Francisco General Hospital, where he was transferred after emergency treatment.

Bahia Del Norte Plan On Novato Agenda

A tentative map of the first unit of Bahia Del Norte will come before the Novato City Planning Commission at 8 o'clock tonight in the community building.

This proposed subdivision by M. W. Finley and others will be on 225 acres west of the Petaluma river and east of Bugeia Lane. The first unit will contain 381 building lots.

Seabreeze Construction Co. is submitting a tentative map of Seabreeze Hills unit 4 of 10 lots on four and one-half acres adjacent to Marin Golf and Country Club Estates unit 2.

Miwok Investment Co. is submitting a tentative map of Kristin Hill Acres of 14 lots on four acres.

Other items to come before the commission include a request to rezone, from limited agricultural to multiple family and retail business, 80 acres between Yukon Way, Leafwood Drive and east of South Novato Boulevard, requested by Harry Heifetz; and to rezone from limited agricultural to planned residential approximately 40 acres west of Highway 101 south from Sunset Parkway requested by Sutter Development Co.

Marin Youths Get Passage Of Bill

By SUE HARMON and DELANIE SECOR
I-J Youth Correspondents

Marin's delegation to the 15th annual YMCA Model Legislature in Sacramento returned home yesterday exhausted but overjoyed that its bill was one of only seven thus far signed into law.

Most of the controversial bills were defeated. Youth Gov. Darryl Meyers, 16, of Sacramento, who said he wants the death penalty abolished, vetoed a measure which would have allowed the courts to give the death sentence to narcotics peddlers convicted three times. He also vetoed a bill requiring semi-annual auto safety inspection as "unfeasible."

One of the eight other bills passed to him, and about which he must make up his mind in 10 days, is a five-year death-penalty moratorium.

A bill to abolish capital punishment was tabled in Senate committee and one to abolish the union shop was lost in the log-jam which entangled most of the 70 bills introduced by the 425 young delegates.

Marin's bill, to permit payment of assessor fees to owners of condemned land, won final approval after a near-miss in the Senate.

Sen. Mike Leone of San Anselmo mispoke as he was presenting it on the Senate floor and a confused West Contra Costa delegate moved it back to committee for clarification. Leone and Marin sponsors of the bill consulted with the legislative counsel and then explained the misunderstanding to the Contra Costan. Sunday morning he moved to reconsider the bill and it passed unanimously.

Other bills signed:

Declassifying "peyote" as a drug.

Defining insanity.

Setting up regulations for reapportioning Assembly and Congressional districts.

Sealed the criminal records of minors.

Making optional participation of teachers in state retirement.

Requiring state-approved safety glass in exterior installations of buildings.

The so-called "Liberty Amendment" to abolish the income tax, was shouted back to committee after accusations it was a product of the John Birch Society. A bill to make the State Board of Education elective and the superintendent of public instruction appointive died in committee.

Mill Valleyan Found Dead Next To Car

Robert E. Robson, a Mill Valley decorator's agent, was found dead behind his 1958 station wagon at 10:05 a.m. yesterday in Enchanted Knolls, a victim of carbon monoxide poisoning.

Col. Glenn L. Clibell of 25 Keats Drive, walking his dog, discovered the rain-soaked body on a cushion which had been removed from the rear seat of the car and placed near the exhaust pipe.

Robson, 57, had been ill and depressed for two years, it was reported to county coroner Frank J. Keaton.

He had apparently driven to the top of the knoll on the extension of Longfellow avenue on Friday morning, Keaton said. Fred Heide of 14 Longfellow was at the scene between 3 and 3:30 p.m. that day and noticed Robson's car but saw a man lying on the front seat inside and surmised he was relaxing. Clibell, who had also walked his dog Friday morning, said he did not see the car at that time.

Robson's wife, Mildred, and daughter, Wendy, disturbed over his absence, started for Robson's Ranch at Dos Rios, Mendocino County, to search for him. The body was discovered, and Keaton notified Mendocino law enforcement officers, who stopped the Robsons before they reached Dos Rios. He had been a wholesale agent for fabrics, rugs and furniture, with an office at 714 Sansome street, San Francisco.

He was born in England and had lived 40 years in Mill Valley, residing at 460 Ralston avenue.

Seven Marin County youths were listed today among nominees by Rep. Donald H. Clausen for armed forces academies.

Clausen's Marin nominations for the Naval Academy at Annapolis included Terry W. Buettner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren H. Buettner of 201 Westover Circle, Hamilton Air Force Base; David J. Paul, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Paul of 13 Joan Avenue, Novato; Albert K. Perry, son of Col. and Mrs. Albert Perry of 1147 Cambridge Street, Novato, and Jon B. Weers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Weers of 285 Grandview Avenue, Novato.

Air Force nominees from Marin were Theodore W. Boyd, son of Mrs. James T. Boyd of 727 Bradley Avenue, Novato; Philip R. Borgeson, son of Maj. and Mrs. Ralph P. Borgeson of Mill Valley, who are now stationed at Colorado Springs, Colo., and John M. Carney Jr., son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. J. M. Carney of 1021 Las Raposas Road, San Rafael.

Clausen said he made the nominations on the basis of a civil service competitive examination conducted at the request of his late predecessor, Rep. Clem Miller.

Fire Chief Has Whiplash Injury

Sausalito Fire Chief Matthew J. Perry of 420 Turney Street was nursing a sore neck today as result of a whiplash injury suffered Saturday night when his car was rammed from behind at the Golden Gate Bridge toll plaza.

Driving south from Marin County, Perry had almost halted his car and was about to hand over his quarter to the toll-taker when his sedan was violently projected forward.

Tallie B. Maule, San Francisco architect, told the California Highway Patrol he found his car without brakes when he sought to slow as he approached the plaza.

Perry received medical treatment at St. Mary's Hospital in San Francisco. Maule got a patrol citation on a charge of operating a car with unsafe brakes.

Two Presidents Personify Freedom And True Equality

Traditionally, we Americans have taken pride in honoring our great patriots, the men who have carved immortal records in the nation's history.

February affords an unusual opportunity, for this month we mark the birthdays of two outstanding leaders—Abraham Lincoln and George Washington.

The centennial of Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation is being marked by a year-long observance throughout the country—a celebration aimed at giving moral and civil freedom to those whose physical bonds were broken one hundred years ago.

On Feb. 22 we will celebrate the birthday of George Washington, our first president, who typified the spirit of liberty and equality upon which our nation is founded.

As we honor the father of our country on this occasion, we can do no better than to recall as a lesson to ourselves, his historic words in a message to the Jewish congregation of Newport in 1789. He wrote:

"The citizens of the United States of America have a right to applaud themselves for having given to mankind examples of an enlarged and liberal policy—a policy worthy of imitation. All possess alike liberty of conscience and immunities of citizenship.

"It is now no more that toleration is spoken of as if it was by the indulgence of one class of the people that another enjoyed the exercise of their inherent natural rights. For happily the government of the United States, which gives to bigotry no sanction, to persecution no assistance, requires only that those who live under its protection should demean themselves as good citizens in giving it on all occasions their effectual support."

The Broom In Bloom

Of all Marin's winter wild-flowers none is more showy than the yellow blazes of Scotch Broom upon the green hills.

This shrub, as Scotch as kilts and bagpipes, was brought to California as an ornamental plant. Then it escaped from captivity and went native. Now it is as at home on Marin's hillsides as it ever was in the Scotch Highlands.

Its bright yellow blossoms have given it the name "Shower o' Gold." An attractive thing about broom is the contrast between the gay yellow blossoms and the sparse, rangey, rich green foliage.

Broom is a member of the Pea family. It thrives in poor, gravelly soil and is a bright spot on winter's green scene.

EARLY RISER PROVES MISCHIEF-MAKER

A 15-year-old boy showed that the slogan, "Early to bed, early to rise" does not always put one "on the side of the angels."

He told the police who arrested him in Madison, Wisc., that he normally went to bed at 7 p.m. so that he could be up by 3 a.m., his favorite hour for burglarizing.

While rightful exception must be taken to anyone who shows imagination and daring in misguided causes, yet these qualities can also be rightly directed.

A great sinner, in other words, has the lethargic negative attitude of the person who is "neither hot nor cold." Mediocrity may not be such a serious sin to the world at large, but such persons please neither God nor man.

The spirit of our age demands that all who believe in the Lord must likewise be bold and venturesome in the pursuit of truth and justice.

"I would that thou wert cold or hot. But because thou art lukewarm, and neither cold nor hot, I am about to vomit thee out of my mouth."

(Apocalypse 3:15-16)

Grant me the grace, O Holy Spirit, to be even more vigorous in spreading Your love than others are in blocking it.

NEW YORK (AP)—Jumping to conclusions—and how many do you agree with?

If you want to impress your boss, give him success talk.

Most executives have an emotional need to look through rose-colored glasses. They are less likely to promote a chronic fault finder, no matter how talented, than a subordinate who habitually emphasizes the hopeful aspects of a bad situation.

It's the office cheerleader who is most likely to get ahead in a business—that is, as long as the business lasts.

No man is going to have a happy marriage for long if he finds it necessary to run next door more than once a week to borrow ice cubes from his neighbor's pretty wife.

The world's best cabbies are in London because, before they get behind the wheel, they spend arduous months on a bicycle learning every street in that sprawling city. Some of the worst taxi drivers are probably in Manhattan. To them everything north of Yankee Stadium or east of the Brooklyn Bridge except for the airports is a howling wilderness.

To me one of the most depressing signs of the decline in the value of money is the fact that many people today, if they drop a penny, no longer bother to pick it up. I made 12 cents last year rescuing lost pennies that strangers didn't retrieve.

A henpecked husband is more likely to get in an auto accident when driving alone than when his wife is in the car. He is unused to depending on his own judgment in a traffic crisis.

THE MOST insufferable snobs civilization has produced are those whose only claim to fame is that they play bridge expertly.

A man who never complains about his losses at a race track is often acclaimed as a good scout. But anyone who regularly loses more money than he can afford to betting on horses is actually a masochist. He enjoys self-punishment. Most gamblers are as sick as alcoholics.

Few losing politicians ever believe they were defeated by an enemy who was a better man. They secretly feel it was their friends who let them down by not doing enough.

All Miss Dynamic Mrs. Anderson

EDITOR, Independent-Journal:

I was very pleased to see your fine editorial tribute to Mrs. Berrien Anderson. Her death is a great loss to the cultural life of Marin County—not only the musical world, as she was president of Marin Music Chest, worked very hard in founding the Symphony Guild of Marin, and was very much interested in scholarships for both groups—but she also contributed generously and encouraged several theatrical and ballet groups.

She was on the first board of directors of the Marin Art and Garden Center and has always kept up her interest in cultural activities there, especially the Shakespeare Festival. She was also an enthusiastic supporter of the new Civic Center and plans for the new fairgrounds.

It seems very fitting that the Symphony Guild of Marin has started a scholarship fund to be named for her. We will all miss her dynamic personality and enthusiastic support for all cultural things of the county.

We Do Nothing At All By Halves

EDITOR, Independent-Journal:

Reminiscence of the past month:

We Californians of the County of Marin, San Francisco and vicinity get plenty of this and that, or none at all.

Looking back to Friday, Dec. 21, headlines "Fog Holds 5,000 at Airport." (Nice finish for autumn.)

The following morning at 12:45 a.m., the sun entered the sign of Capricorn, so officially it's Winter and it sure began to live up to its name, as the I-J stated, "Old Jack Frost Arrives in Marin." Yes! We can boast of a White Christmas morning, at least some call it White Frost, but I have other names for it.

However, the thermometer hung around 21 early Christmas Day, but the worst is yet to come. Like the Dutchman said to his dog, "Rover, when you die you are dead, but when I die, I got to go to hell." "Tain't funny, McGee.

January 12, 1963, the mercury dipped to 12 (some coincidence). Buds came out on our Sweet Magnolia and they received a nice coating of ice—to preserve them.

The seagulls in Golden Gate Park used caution upon landing on the ice covered ponds, but usually stand along the shore like a bunch of Alaskan igloos.

The animals in the zoo in order to keep warm swallowed their tails, (an endless tale), and the monkeys, including Dr. Forester, all left for warmer climate except me. I got stuck in the ice, but I am thinking about turning my floor over to the public for a skating rink.

The ice-breaker Northwind that cut Treasure Island out of the frozen Bay and then left Monday, Jan. 28 to participate in cruises to the Bering Sea and the Arctic, had found it too cold here for them and besides they want to help roll back the ice barriers and let the Ten-Tribes out (poor dupes), and with them the Ice Age Cometh.

Then I will exchange places with them for a warmer climate.

Dear Reader: You may wonder why I did not send this in sooner, but the truth of the matter is my typewriter was frozen up and that reminds me of Bob Hope: Some years ago, he said, "I went down to Florida for the Winter—and I found it." (Friend Bob, next time come to Marin).

Well, throw all jokes to the wind, Marin is really getting de-frosted now, and I think probably what Marinites need most is something in the form of Noah's Ark, especially around Kentfield and Ross.

Would Protect Teen Offender

EDITOR, Independent-Journal:

I protest and will continue to protest. Any young criminal, delinquent, or vicious teen-ager that steals a car and wrecks it, mugs innocent people, breaks into a house and maliciously wrecks that, if he is a minor is protected, his name withheld to protect him in case he can be rehabilitated.

You have published the story of the young scout 14 years old, in many details quite erroneous you have headlined in Saturday's paper, "wanted for burglary" this is not protecting a minor and in this case not a vicious or delinquent child yet.

I know something of this boy and it is a tragic commentary on our laws and generation, and an indictment against a system and nation that such a boy with the possibilities of great good should find himself in these straits. He is only 14, he is not an underprivileged child, but one like yours or mine. This is all wrong and it is wrong to brand him as you have done.

BENNETT CERF

Several years after she had married Charles MacArthur, stage star Helen Hayes announced to him and their young son James that she had secretly been taking cooking lessons, and proposed to cook dinner for them that very evening. "If I spoil it," she ordered, "I don't want to hear a word from either of you. We'll just get up from the table, without comment, and go to a restaurant for dinner."

A short time later, she entered the dining room, bearing aloft the first steak she ever had cooked. Mr. MacArthur and son Jamie were sitting in silence at the table—with their hats and coats on.

An enchanting but temperamental little girl of 8 received a phone call from a schoolmate the other evening. "Please call me back in ten minutes," she requested. "I'm in the middle of a tantrum."

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By BRUCE COLEMAN

Senor Manny Gomez Goes All Out When Talking About Helping Youth

Teen-agers in Southern Marin have been appearing before their respective City Councils asking for a place to meet other than the street.

Belvedere youths have been successful and are now using a portion of the Community Hall. Sausalito and Mill Valley young people have yet to crack the nut.

Last Wednesday several men spoke for a center—pink houses or no—before the Mill Valley City Council while two dozen teen-agers stood by. As usual, the man who garbled his words but not his meaning, was Senor Manuel Gomez. Says Gomez:

"You are always willing to pass the buck to park and recreation. This town has been doing something for the youth since I was 17. And I'm way past 17.

"We moved the garbage dump . . . Why beat around the bush? The kids want something. This is the generation I have seen coming up. Are we willing to spend 50 or $60,000 for a place with a couple of bathrooms, a little kitchen? Let's not build a hotel or opera house. Something for them now. Are we willing to do this in three years? Can we do it in three years? That's the question.

"I'm tired of pictures. We have got a safe full of pictures. Some of these girls (motioning to teen-agers in front row) will be married by then. We spent money for the master plan. Seventeen acres we own. Seventeen acres we can develop. The youth need something. Are we going to do something for them?"

THE OTHER day we saw a man with a cat on a red leash near Olive Street in Mill Valley and stopped to investigate.

It turned out the cat had lived through the recent fire in Sausalito in which Mrs. Ruth Fisher died. A Burmese and three years old, his name is "Chum."

Owner David Forsberg, when asked why he leashed his cat, replied, "It's the only way he gets out. We're taking him up to show him a waterfall," said Forsberg.

"It's his first waterfall," said Forsberg's friend. The three climbed into a convertible and sped away up the mountain.

A MYSTERY on Testa Street in Sausalito last week was a break in a water main which caused a duplex-high water fountain. When capped by a piece of plywood it was three feet, according to neighbor George Hoffman, but when uncapped it was 18-20 feet.

George Eames, Marin Municipal Water District superintendent, said his men tried to repair the pipe but it was not repairable due to its age, so a new piece of pipe was made. The fountain lasted three days.

A few notes about people:

JAMES B. GILL of Tamalpais Valley was on and off the sea 22 years with the Coast Guard. Retired, he has his land legs but can't get used to living at home and not on the San Francisco lightship.

Benjamin P. Upham reports the mimosa in bloom in Larkspur. This is important.

Hank Pierroz, happy Mill Valley fireman, was taking the air outside the firehouse the other day and nodded hello to a little old lady who was walking by. The little old lady passed by, then cogitating a moment, returned to Hank.

"Do you know me?" she asked.

"No," said the fireman, "just wanted to say hello."

We Need Fresh Thinking In Foreign Affairs To Perk Up Those At Work

WASHINGTON—The critical mistake in our affair with Canada was to make any public statement about the negotiations between the two governments. However provoking Prime Minister Diefenbaker's disclosures about confidential matters, this was a time when a wise government would have remained silent.

Our dealings with the Canadian government have no doubt been complicated. But the crucial issue is the same one which has disrupted our relations with France and shaken the whole Western Alliance, and has alienated us from General De Gaulle. It is how to reconcile the American nuclear monopoly with the sovereign independence of our closest allies.

WHAT WENT WRONG in Washington was that the final decision to scold the Canadian government was not seen in the context of our foreign policy as a whole. Who does see our foreign policy as a whole in all its ramifications? This deplorable and annoyed episode has raised again the question of how to organize the control of foreign policy.

The question cannot be answered by saying that X rather than Y should be secretary of state. The heart of the problem is that, in the post-war era, so many departments of the government are involved in foreign policy that no secretary of state can direct all of it.

IN PRINCIPLE, only the chief executive can conduct a foreign policy which is in fact formulated and administered by State, Defense, Treasury and Intelligence. But in practice, no President can do it because the decision is so complicated and he has so many other things to do.

What has in fact developed is the conduct of our foreign policy by committees of which the President is the chairman, and on big questions the final arbiter.

We must ask ourselves what system would work better. An omniscient secretary of state advising the President? The fact is that there can be no secretary of state who is omniscient enough. This country is involved deeply in all five continents, and inescapably, whatever the formal titles, there will in practice be several secretaries of state.

We are not alone in this. In Great Britain, Lord Home is the Foreign Secretary and Mr. Heath handles relations with Europe.

MY OWN IMPRESSION of the committee system today is that the level of intelligence among the principal figures is high. But it has its defects, and they have become vividly manifest in the aftermath of the Gaullist explosion.

Like all committees, whether they run a government or a newspaper, they tend to favor a consensus over creation. What is most obviously needed in Washington at this moment is original thinking. General De Gaulle has shattered the post-war structure of United States' foreign policy, and we are launched on seas for which the old charts do not show us the way.

It is easier, I know, for an outsider to say it than for the President to do it. But what is needed is an infusion of fresh and unfrightened minds, not to replace the men who are there, but to refresh them.

10 YEARS AGO

Over protests of Chairman William D. Fusselman, Marin County supervisors enacted a fire ordinance first suggested by the grand jury the preceding May. The jury had voiced criticism of the lack of action.

A candidate for "meanest thief" title stole $20 from a March of Dimes collection bucket in front of the San Anselmo firehouse.

WEATHER FOR DUCKS IN LOS ANGELES

A detail of mallard ducks cruises along Dominguez Avenue in the Firestone Park section of Los Angeles after a sudden storm dumped several inches which is what Supt. Homer L. Sisk estimated is needed to put the district at its full bonding capacity, would give a balance of $279,000 after the current indebtedness is paid off. This gives $54,000 more than the estimated need, but it would probably be absorbed by interest cost.

Fairfax Schools Seek Big Bond Issue

Sisk said passage of such a bond issue would actually lower the yearly interest and redemption tax for Fairfax School District property owners.

Under the state loan-assistance program, the state pays about half the bond retirement cost. Fairfax School District taxpayers are now paying 56 cents per $100 valuation in taxes toward retirement of bonds and state loans. But the state is also paying 22 cents toward retiring Fairfax district's bonded indebtedness, said Sisk.

Under a new state formula, the state share would be increased if new bonds were voted. This would actually cut the cost to the Fairfax district taxpayers by five cents, said Sisk. The payment period would, of course, be extended.

Among actions taken by four of the trustees Saturday (Trustee Robert C. Lauppe was absent) was authorization for Sisk to purchase a house and lot at 62 Park Road for use as a school district office to free the present office space for school use. The lot will eventually be cleared and used for expansion of Central School facilities.

Sisk estimated that acquisition and improvement of this property would cost about $15,000. He said it would be necessary to sell short-term bonds to pay for it.

Trustees also decided that they would have to warn civic clubs in the community that lots the district owns on School Street adjacent to Central School may have to be developed about five years from now.

Civic clubs are talking of constructing tennis courts on the property as a community-school recreation project.

Sisk opened Saturday's discussion by saying that Howard Rowe, field representative on school housing with the State Department of Public Works, had recently said that Central School was too small for further development as a seventh and eighth grade facility.

The state would not assist with expansion of Central as a seventh and eighth grade unit but would approve future building if it were a kindergarten through sixth grade school, Sisk said.

This forced the trustees to conclude that a fourth school site must be purchased for the upper grades.

Trustees voted to meet at the Central School again at 1:30 p.m. Saturday and take a field trip to look at possible sites. Sites will also be discussed at the next regular meeting Feb. 19.

Sisk presented a projection of growth which showed that pupil population would increase from the present 928 to 1,047 by the 1969-70 school year. He said this was a conservative projection and did not take into account an "explosive" developments.

Trustees agreed that they should be able to present a measure to voters that would not increase the tax rate. The present tax structure for the district is:

General purpose, $1.93; certificated employee retirement, 5 cents; classified employee retirement, 4 cents; social security, 1 cent; community service, 5 cents; school building loan, 33 cents; education of mentally retarded, 1 cent, and bond interest and redemption, 23 cents. This is a total school district tax of $2.65.

Pro Musica Concert Is Pleasant

By MABELLE SPECKMANN

Devotees of Elizabethan music found last night's concert presented by Marin Pro Musica and the Wednesday Recorder Consort a pleasant way to spend a Sunday evening.

Completely suitable to madrigals and the music of the ancient wooden flutes was the informal atmosphere of Alexander Hall of the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo.

The hall was just large enough to accommodate the audience likely to be interested in this special kind of chamber music. It was composed of madrigals and rounds sung a cappella and numbers by Wilby, Gibbons, Holborne and Purcell performed on the recorder by six players directed by Doug Perrin.

In this, its second appearance, the Pro Musica group of 14 singers seemed better balanced in the four voices, and the singing directed by Wilbur F. Russell was better unaccompanied.

A surprise feature was the appearance of the 13-voice male chorus of the San Francisco Theological Seminary, also directed by Russell. They sang well some Christmas Carols from Medieval England.

The Marin Pro Musica promises to bring to Marin music lovers the privilege of hearing many good smaller works that are seldom performed.

Publishers Will Fight Censorship

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The California Newspaper Publishers' Assn. has resolved to lash out at any attempt at news management or censorship by government at any level, wherever it is detected.

"There is a tendency grown to dangerous proportions to manage news at its source in government circles," the association said in a resolution adopted at its 75th annual convention here. "There also is a growing tendency to attempt censorship from these same sources."

The publishers resolved to "speak up clearly and strongly in every possible way" against the tendencies and to "fight vigorously and honorably for the right to obtain the facts and the truth of any situation that should be public knowledge."

Tax Plan Delay Is Rejected

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The administration today turned down a plea for a one-year delay in action on Gov. Edmund G. Brown's withholding tax proposal.

President Milton M. Teague of the California State Chamber of Commerce urged the legislature to wait until at least the 1964 session to consider the controversial plan.

Brown's finance director, Hale Champion, demurred.

"The fundamental objective of a withholding system is to insure equity among all our taxpayers," he said. "Neither the chamber nor anyone else has cited valid reasons to defer achieving that equity."

The governor is counting on revenue from a speedup in tax payments to balance his 1963-64 and 1964-65 budgets. Most of the one-shot increase in income would come from eliminating installment payments, and starting pay-as-you-earn collection of corporate and personal income taxes.

Payroll withholding of income taxes would go into effect in July 1964. Californians would pay two years' tax in one year, less a 25 per cent forgiveness.

Teague, in a statement Sunday, suggested holding off until the state knows what its revenue and spending picture will be like in 1964-65. Then, too, he added:

"Efforts should first be made to reduce government spending and slow down the rate of alarming year-by-year increases in the state budget which far outstrip California's population and income growth."

The State chamber president declared the double payment would divert money from private to public spending. He said withholding would require considerable extra bookkeeping by employers.

Teague urged an investigation to determine whether there is significant evasion of state income taxes under the present system.

Champion, in a reply, pointed out that 600,000 newcomers who arrive in California each year get a "free ride" on public services in their first year here.

"Similarly, firms and individuals who have earned money in California are allowed by the by the present system to escape paying taxes on their earnings by leaving the state or going out of business," the finance director said.

"We should correct these inequities as quickly as possible."

Champion said delay in putting in the withholding process would cut in half the amount of time which the governor proposes to provide employers to prepare for the change.

"The governor's tax program will allow us to get through 1965 without changing the present tax structure," he said. "By that time, the two-year tax revision study will be complete and we will have a clear idea of what, if any, basic changes are required."

INCOME TAX FACTS

How Uncle Sam Can't Bite Profit On Sale Of House

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

If you made a profit on the sale of your residence and within one year before or one year after the sale your buy and occupy another residence, or if you begin construction of a residence, either before the sale of your old residence or within one year after the sale, and occupy it not later than 18 months after the sale, the profit is not taxed at that time if the cost of the new residence is as much or more than the sale price of the old residence.

You are allowed additional time if you were on active duty in the United States Armed Forces after you sold the old residence.

This rule applies only to the sale of your principal residence if you have more than one residence.

The tax is postponed until you sell the new residence. There is not a forgiveness of the tax.

Two conditions must be met to entitle you to non-recognition of gain. You must buy the new residence within one year before or one year after the sale of your old residence, and you must actually live in the new one.

If you sold your old residence at a profit and the adjusted sale price was more than the purchase price of the new home, you had a taxable gain.

However, the taxable gain is limited to the difference between the adjusted sale price of the old residence and the purchase price of the new residence.

A loss on the sale or exchange of your residence may not be deducted whether or not you replace it with a new residence.

This applies to both California and Federal returns.

Girl Scout Consolidation Set As Marin's Future Is Debated

By BARBARA HOSMER

The Bay Area's 40,000 Girl Scouts—including Marin's 3,200 girls—are scheduled to be combined under a single administrative council when broad changes in the national Girl Scout program begin July 1.

The single San Francisco Bay Council is designed to serve the girls of Marin, San Francisco, San Mateo, Alameda and Contra Costa counties, replacing the present 12 councils, Scout officials announced.

THE IDEA of the consolidation—which is a nationwide program—is to attempt greater coordination of the Bay Area's Scouting facilities and administration of the program.

The consolidation of councils would go hand-in-hand with the updating of the entire Girl Scout program.

Mrs. Harold F. Green of Tiburon, who last month finished a three-year term as president of the Marin County Girl Scout Council, explains the situation here—

"THERE ARE a number of people in the Marin Council who are opposing consolidation. The matter was debated at the annual meeting Jan. 29 with a panel discussion. On Feb. 5 the Marin Board voted to recommend to the Council that it join the San Francisco Bay Council. And on Feb. 19 the Marin Council will vote whether or not to relinquish the assets here and turn over its charter to the new enlarged council."

She said that if the Marin Council votes not to give up the charter and turn over its assets to the Bay Council, it has the right to appeal to the national board of directors. If the matter goes to the national board the Marin Council will have to prove it is not needed in the new jurisdiction and that it can provide as good or better program on its own.

Speaking on reasons for the national move, Mrs. Green said that many councils throughout the country are not large enough to provide a good program, and that many areas have lone troops.

"WHEN THE consolidation proposal was made in the Bay Area the Marin Council was included in the jurisdiction. Although we were not cited were pointed out at a press conference by Mrs. Frederic Hirschler, national board of directors, Region XII committee and Oakland Council member, and Mrs. Thaddeus Whalen, board member and program change coordinator for convinced that consolidation would result in a better program for the girls, we then voted to join because we felt we should have a voice in the study.

"Alameda and Del Valle (Pleasanton-Livermore area) Councils voted to stay out but were still included in the new council's plans. Since then Del Valle has voted to join, but Alameda's future is unknown. If Alameda does not join, the area will be included anyway," Mrs. Green said.

RELUCTANCE WAS evidenced in several areas about joining a single large council, but most have come around. The Berkeley Council is one that balked and then agreed to join the new council.

The hoped-for advantages of having a single Bay Coun-to provide better continuity of program through the levels; keep open end troops; provide a wider and more interesting program for the senior levels, and easier administration.

The Bay Council will be headed by a 40-member board of directors representing all geographic areas and an executive director with a staff. Service centers are planned for each county. The neighborhood organizations will remain as they are, they said.

"I THINK THAT the new troop program will bring in membership," Mrs. Hirschler stated, estimating that the new council's roster would jump from 40,000 to 50,000 eventually.

The executive director, Miss Margaret McClellan, who is the San Francisco Girl Scout Council.

Pointing out that the Camp Fire Girls had just finished such a consolidation and the Boy Scouts were scheduled for one, they said that the Bay Area organization committee, consisting of two delegates from each existing Girl Scout council, has drawn up details of procedure and jurisdiction. The new council is scheduled to organize May 29 at a meeting at the Fairmont Hotel, when it will apply for a charter to become effective July 1.

THEY EXPLAIN the new plan:

To extend the Girl Scout program to more areas and more girls as the population grows; to enable all Bay Area Girl Scouts to attend any of the 12 existing camps ranging from sea level to Sierra sites; now executive director of Region III in Pennsylvania, is expected to come to the Bay Area in March to begin her work.

The revision of the Girl Scout program nationally, which will begin in September, will be made because girls are growing up faster than before, the National Program Department has announced.

THE NEW GROUPINGS

will be: Brownie Scouts, aged 7 and 8 years; Junior Girl Scouts, aged 9, 10 and 11, with proficiency badges earned for simple requirements as a preliminary to more advanced Scouting; Cadette Girl Scouts, aged 12, 13 and 14 years, proficiency badges calling for more intensive work in distinct areas of specialization; Senior Girl Scouts, aged 15, 16 and 17, greater work and pre-vocational training in aide projects. Each troop to select major interest and plan combinations of projects in those areas. They will put greater emphasis on service aide programs on pre-vocational level.

THE "OPEN END" troop concept will be used, with a troop keeping its locale and number even though its members will move on to other troops as they reach higher levels of Scouting and though leaders may change. The troops will be larger than presenting and within will use the eight patrol system.

The Bay Area scouting facilities and camps will be specialized into pioneer camps, arts program camps and such, it was announced.

"Hopefully the program changes will keep the girls interested as they grow up, and end the drop-out problem," Mrs. Whalen said.

Envied By All Her Foreign Sisters

By HARRY FERGUSON
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The average American female is about 30 years and one month old, five feet four and one-half inches tall and weighs 132 pounds, of which she would like to lose ten.

Experts are almost unanimous that her first interest in life is motherhood inside the framework of the tribal laws of our civilization—to get married and have a family.

By all material standards the American woman is the most fortunate in the world and is the envy of her sisters in all other lands. Hair styles in London, Paris, Berlin and Buenos Aires are likely to change every time Doris Day makes a new movie. European magazines and newspapers were crammed with pictures of Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy even before her recent coronation as the world's best dressed woman.

AMERICAN WOMEN, according to Women's Wear Daily, spend 11.4 billion dollars a year on clothes. They spend 1.9 billion dollars on shoes and 1.8 billion dollars on things to daub on their faces and their hair. The result is that—Paris to the contrary—the American woman is the best dressed in the world.

A half hour devoted to girl watching at any sidewalk cafe in Paris will demolish the myth that Frenchwomen are the most chic and best dressed. Great clothes are created in Paris, but they don't trickle down to the average woman, who is likely to have run-down heels and sweaters that don't fit. The women of Paris are a sorry sight compared with the trim, smart girls who swarm out of

THE WHOLE BUSINESS of picking the world's ten best dressed women is the bunk, according to Marlene Dietrich, a wise woman whom we shall consult frequently in these re- at her disposal.

THERE ARE ABOUT 29 million American women who have jobs and the whole field of business, industry, politics searches:

"This list is reserved for the rich, for those who can afford to buy from the great designers, who have time for endless fittings and then can be seen wearing these creations in the right surroundings."

The average American woman has more leisure than any other in the world. Automation has taken over in the living room and more especially in the kitchen. A research report turned up the fact that the average housewife has 100 labor-saving tools or machines and the arts theoretically is open to them. In practice, however, there are limitations on what women can do and how they shall be compensated, and this is a source of much dissatisfaction, as we shall see later.

There are women senators, women congressmen, women judges and women presidents of big corporations. There is nothing in the Constitution to prevent a woman from being President of the United States provided she is a natural-born citizen and has reached the age of 35, although Article II stacks the cards against her a WOMEN OUTNUMBER men in the United States by almost 2,000,000 and they live longer. The male death is 10.7 per 1,000; the female, 7.9. Almost all doctors agree women can endure more pain than men, or at least they endure more without complaining. Few are bold enough to claim to have solved the riddle of her mental processes or why she acts the way she does. Dr. Joseph H. Peck, who has written extensively on the subject, tells about the time he was a medical student watching a delivery. The obstetrician held a new-born girl in his arms and addressed the students:

"If I may paraphrase an old quotation, 'Sex to a man is a thing apart, a woman's whole existence.' The odds are against her ever being a great builder of works of art and utility, a deep thinker or philosopher, an interpreter of religious truths or a scientist probing into the secrets of the universe . . .

"THE RIDDLE of the Sphinx is elementary compared with her possible actions and reactions, but she was given to us by the Almighty with, I am sure, a major assist from the devil. We love her, cherish her and often would like to choke her. But without her, we doctors and the human race would be in one hell of a fix. Gentlemen, I give you woman in all her infinite variety and may God have mercy on your souls."

Are They Or Aren't They? Just A Hint Of Longer Skirt

By EUNICE FARMER

"Are they, or aren't they, going up or down? I mean the length of skirts for spring. Every report I hear is different, and I can't afford to believe the wrong rumors."—Mrs. J.D. Dear Mrs. J.D.:

After seeing the collections of some 50 top designers at press week in New York this past week, I'm happy to report that the skirts will be approximately the same length as they are now, about 1 inch below the knees. Again, everyone agrees that the skirt length should be decided by the individual figure.

There is some indication, however, that European designers are trying to bring back longer skirts, but it will be at least autumn before we can tell how this trend will influence our clothes. Play it safe and make a little deeper hem!

Mrs. W.H. says:

When sewing blouses or dresses with fancy buttons, make buttonholes on both fronts of your garment. Sew the buttons on a strip of gros-grain ribbon and simply button through both buttonholes. Easy to take off when laundering and saves lots of broken buttons.

"I didn't realize how bloused the dress I am making would be when I saw the picture. What would be the best way to take out some of the blousing?"—Mrs. R.E. Dear Mrs. R.E.:

Try on the bodice alone and tie a string very tightly around your waistline. Now, carefully pull up as much ease as you like, perhaps more in the back than in the front. When it looks just right to you, place a row of pins under the string. This will be a guide for your gathering threads so the ease will be even, and at the same time be a mark for the waistline seam. The amount of ease should suit the individual figure and doesn't have to follow the pattern exactly.

"If the center of your contour sheets wears out, fit a piece of unbleached muslin (the width and length of the bed) to the edges of the sheet, and machine stitch with a flat seam. The muslin is easier to pin in shape with the contour sheet on the bed. After you have stitched the two together, you can cut away the worn part.

"After a couple of washings, the muslin will bleach white. This patched sheet should last as long as the original one. For single width beds, you might use gay striped or printed cotton and apply a band of the same fabric to your pillow slips."

This suggestion from Mrs. Glenn R. Link, 104 South Elm St., Cherryville, N.C., is this week's tailor trix pressing board winner.

In answer to Mrs. L.C. who asked about removing rust spots, I have taken the following information from any readers' letters.

First, always be cautious with colored fabrics and test the remedy in a hidden spot. If the garment is white and washable, you may put salt on the spot and then squeeze fresh lemon juice over the salt and lay it in the sun to dry. A sun lamp will also work. Rinse out and repeat if necessary.

Another reader suggests using buttermilk and salt. Another suggestion was to make a paste of equal parts of salt and cream of tartar and spread on rust spots, then place this in the sun. It seems that instead of placing in the sun, you may also hold the fabric over boiling water or a teakettle using buttermilk and salt. An- results.

Make A Habit Of Letting Children Make Some Of Their Own Decisions

Do you let children make their own choices most of the time, or do you decide everything for them? Let's look at "Geraldine" and "Bonnie," both 11.

Geraldine's mama is afraid to let her out of her sight. Though Geraldine has an allowance, she learns nothing from it because she can't spend a penny without her mother's consent. Geraldine wears nice clothes, but she never has a word to say about choosing them. Geraldine has a big appetite, but she has to get her mama's permission before she can have a second helping of meat, or an extra glass of milk. Geraldine is timid, immature, incompetent. She couldn't be anything else, could she?

Geraldine's cousin "Bonnie" is in the same room at school. Bonnie spends her own allowance, budgeting it carefully. She chooses most of her own clothes. When she is hungry, Bonnie can have seconds or thirds at dinner. She goes everywhere alone. Bonnie stays overnight at Geraldine's house frequently, but Geraldine never comes to hers. She won't leave her mama.

The contrast at school is equally great. Bonnie greets each new lesson happily. Geraldine always is afraid she'll fail. Bonnie plays kickball with the boys while Geraldine stands and watches. Bonnie is popular. Geraldine is ignored. Bonnie hasn't a care in the world. Geraldine goes through agonies of worry each day. When they reach their teens Bonnie will be a self-reliant young lady. Geraldine will be a mess.

Many other things matter, of course. But one important part of growing up is learning to make your own decisions. So? So make a habit of letting your children decide things for themselves. They need guidance and protection, of course. You can't turn them loose. But the sooner they can be independent of you the better. Good luck!

'Safari Shuffle' To Be Set In Siam

Safari Shuffle, the costume dinner dance that benefits a Maryknoll Missioner in Tanganyika, will safari from Africa to Mill Valley, president-elect of the medical auxiliary. Siam on Feb. 23 at the Meadow Club to give guests a change of scene.

Highlighting the entertainment will be a parody of "The King and I" which will feature the seven children of the King (Sen. Jack McCarthy). He and Mrs. McCarthy will again play host for this fifth Safari Shuffle that will help the Rev. George D. Daily M.M. build a home for the aged in Busanda, Tanganyika.

Songs from "The King and I" will keynote the evening's program: "Getting to Know You" with cocktails and horse d'oeuvres at 7 o'clock, "March of the Siamese Children" a show by the King's children at 8:30 p.m., "I Whistle a Happy Tune" as the "Head Wife" escorts guests into dinner, "Shall we Dance" until 1 a.m.

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

You Must Learn To Get Help From Enemy When Playing Game

Even if you take pride in being self-reliant you must sometimes allow others to do things for you. For example, there's no satisfaction in sitting on your own lap—even if you can find a way to do it. The same principle applies to bridge, where you must sometimes find a way to get help from an enemy.

opponent into the lead at a time when any return will be favorable. In this case you must cash the ace of hearts before giving up the diamond trick; for otherwise East would get out safely by returning a heart.

ALMANAC

Today is Monday, Feb. 11, the 42nd day of 1963 with 323 to follow.

The moon is approaching its last quarter. The morning star is Venus. The evening stars are Mars, Saturn and Jupiter.

On this day in history: In 1916, Germany advised the U. S. Ambassador in Berlin the central powers intended to sink all armed enemy merchantmen without warning after March 1.

In 1945, President Franklin Roosevelt, Prime Minister Winston Churchill and Marshall Joseph Stalin ended their week-long World War II conferences at Yalta.

A thought for the day—Joseph Stalin said: "History shows that there are no invincible armies."

PSYCHOLOGIST—A tape recorder stands in front of the cardboard box in the office of San Rafael Elementary School District's psychologist, Charles Perkins. Testing and parent and case conferences are held in this office.

LIBRARIAN—The office of the librarian for elementary schools, Mrs. Frank Peebles, (left), is where books are delivered, catalogued and then sent out to San Rafael schools by Mrs. Peebles and Mrs. Oscar Green, clerk, seen talking on telephone. This is one of business offices in the soon-to-be-sold E Street School building.

GIFTED CHILDREN—The office of Robert Shore, who heads the district's "more able learners" program, is in some disarray. Materials for the program are sorted and distributed to schools from this office.

What Goes On In An Abandoned School?

San Rafael's E Street School has been declared surplus by the San Rafael Board of Education, and will be up for sale as soon as clearing of complicated land titles is completed.

No regular class has met in the E Street School for over a year. For twice that long, part of its rooms have been occupied by the city's planning and public works departments.

Yet with sale of the property imminent, school officials have been scurrying about to find quarters to replace those being lost at E Street. A proposal to rent the old American Legion Building, which formerly housed the county schools office, was abandoned. Now the board of education is considering a new building or an addition to the present headquarters building on the San Rafael High School campus.

What are the facilities in a school building where no class meets that present such a replacement requirement? The pictures on this page tell at least part of the story.

A caller at E Street School on any school day afternoon may find more people in the rooms than Independent-Journal photographer Jim Kean discovered when he took these pictures. However, as the rooms are merely headquarters for the various programs, the school people who use them are in and out.

The board of education expects to use the money realized from sale of E Street School to build the Glenwood Elementary School, site work for which is already under way. The 1.9-acre E Street property will be diminished by an extension of Third Street being cut diagonally across one corner. Besides its use for the school offices shown here and for the two city departments, the property now includes a rental parking lot.

ART—Workshops for teachers learning how to use various art media in their classes are held in the office of the district's art consultant, Bruce Pinegar. Blackboard displays are of work in elementary school art classes.

SPEECH—Meetings of county speech therapists are held in the office of the San Rafael Elementary district's speech therapist, Carrol Graham. The chart on the wall shows the parts of the body involved in the process.

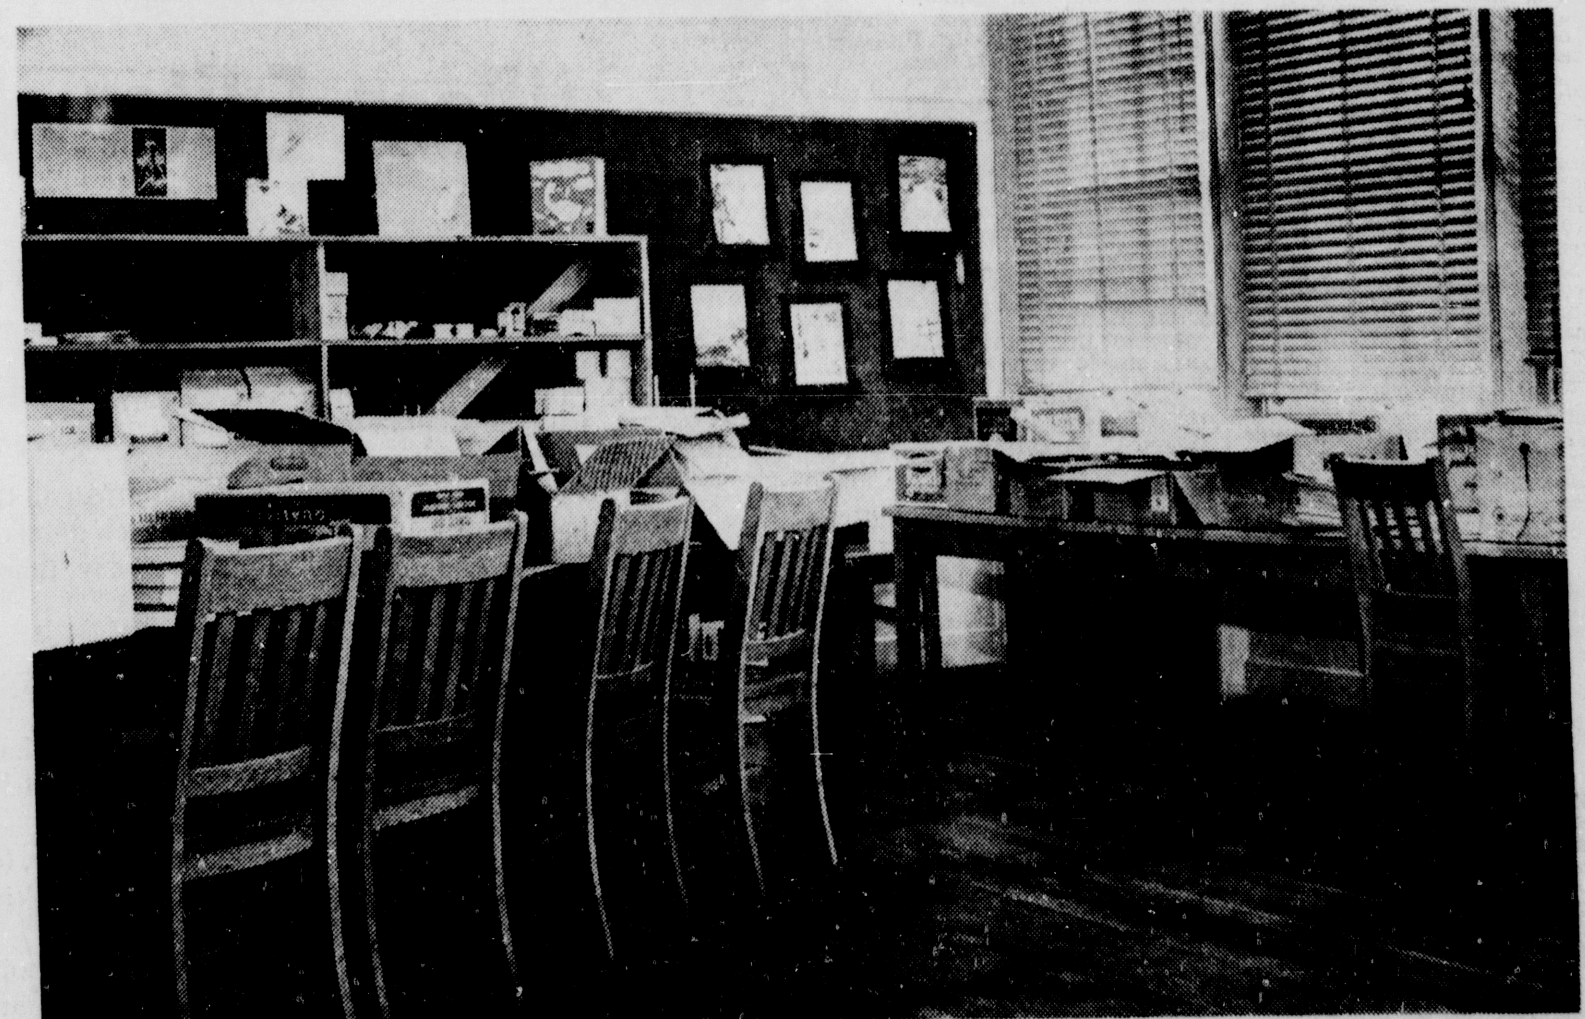

MUSIC—Workshops in classroom music teaching are held in the office of the district's music consultant, Mrs. Frances Lawler. The district's music library is also housed here.

HEALTH—The supplies and records of the district's nurses are kept in the office of the director of health services, Katherine Tasker. The nurses have offices in the schools they serve. Only E Street School office not shown on this page is that of Ralph H. Phelps, principal of adult education in San Rafael High School District.

CURRICULUM—Workshops and committee meetings are held in the office of Mrs. Evangeline Geiger, curriculum consultant, who gathers, organizes and sends out curriculum materials to schools. The assistant superintendent for the elementary school district, Dr. Mildred B. Barnard, has her office at the San Rafael schools headquarters on the high school campus.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

German Scientists Working To Help Victims Of Tragedy Of Thalidomide

The tragedy of thalidomide never will be forgotten. The ministry of health at Bonn, Germany, reported in August, 1962, that 5,000 malformed babies had been born since 1959, presumably from the use of this sedative by pregnant women. Approximately half of this number of infants failed to survive, leaving 2,000 in need of surgical and orthopedic care.

VAN DELLEN

If the tragedy had to happen, Germany was a suitable place because the art of making artificial limbs is well developed there. The number of amputees from both world wars is high, and many receive attention from 600 prosthetic and orthotic (brace) shops.

DR. CHARLES H. FRANTZ of Grand Rapids, Mich., was sent to Germany by the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults to study the problem. He reported in the Illinois Medical Journal that physicians and technicians have been specializing in fitting children with prostheses for many years.

But the procomelic extremities often are no more than small flippers, which means there is little to which an artificial arm or leg can be attached. In addition, the flippers do not have enough power to activate or move the prosthesis.

THE GERMANS are using plastic shoulder caps that fit over the shoulders to support the upper section and belt bands or thigh straps are employed for the legs. Cables are anchored to these devices, and by certain manipulations, the parts can be moved. But it is too difficult and an outside source of power is being substituted. This comes from carbon dioxide gas under pressure which is held in a small tank carried on a sling.

Small plastic tubes lead to pressure control valves that operate the elbow and hand. The most difficult are children with involvement of all four extremities. They cannot get about unless they have arms good enough to manage crutches. Meanwhile, the surgeons are busy correcting defects elsewhere in the body of these unfortunate babies. What these children will be like in five years from now is not known. (Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

DISTURBANCE OF BEAT
G.E.D. writes: How is heart block treated?

REPLY
Only a small percentage of heart block requires treatment. This is particularly true when the beat is so slow the individual faints without warning after slight exertion. The most popular remedies include isoproterenol, ephedrine, and the corticosteroids. Now and then a block is associated with another heart defect that requires additional care.

ONE TUBE ONLY
Mrs. B. writes: When one fallopian tube has been removed, can a woman have children of both sexes or only one sex?

REPLY
Either boys or girls, because the ovary has nothing to do with the sex of the child. On the other hand, with only one tube, the chances of becoming pregnant are reduced to 50 per cent.

SPURS AND SPASMS
F. R. writes: Are arthritic spurs caused by muscle spasms?

REPLY
No but painful spurs often cause spasm of nearby muscles. Today's Health Hint: Respect each child's individuality.

Northgate Shopping Center Has Many Renters Already

More than half of all rentable space in the first unit of the Northgate Shopping Center, Marin's largest projected retail area, has been leased.

Unit One comprises 79,219 square feet of business area in three buildings on approximately 10 acres south of Freitas Parkway and between Las Gallinas Avenue and Northgate Drive. It does not include the 45 acres under development for the Emporium and other major stores, medical and professional buildings, service stations, and the Wells Fargo Bank.

Already established in Unit One are the Purity Stores market and a temporary office of Citizens Federal Savings and Loan Association. The latter is expected to occupy its permanent quarters within six or seven weeks.

Next door to the savings and loan company and due to open at about the same time will be a branch of the Bourbon Shop, owned by Art Pappas of Greenbrae. The Bourbon Shop has stores in the Marinwood and Montecito Shopping Centers and in San Francisco. The Northgate store will carry a full line of liquors and stocks of gourmet foods.

Lee's, a store devoted exclusively to the sale of Hallmark cards, may be opened by May. Owners Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Costa of San Anselmo also operate Wilco Stores in San Francisco. Mrs. Costa will manage the Northgate store and her husband will continue at Wilco.

Two other San Anselmo residents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Dahl, will open the Northgate Shoe Service. They own the Shoe Repair Center in the Corte Madera Shopping Center, which Mrs. Dahl will continue to manage. Dahl will operate the Northgate repair service. There is a possibility of an April opening.

Adjoining the shoe repair shop will be a barbershop of Fred Esparza, 275 Devon Drive, San Rafael. A 2,120-square foot beauty salon is also planned nearby, lessee unknown.

A restaurant, bar and cocktail lounge of 5,600 square feet will be opened by Mrs. Ethel Barrie of Daly City. Mrs. Barrie owns the Sai-Wu Garden in Westlake and will conduct a similar operation in Northgate — Chinese and American food and specializing in Polynesian drinks. No name for the restaurant has yet been selected and its opening is not expected until May or June. Mrs. Barrie will move to Marin County and manage it personally.

Children's Shoe World, owned by John McPhee of Oakland, will have a Northgate branch. Six other branches are located in the East Bay and on the San Francisco peninsula, one having just opened in Westlake. No occupancy date has been given.

Camera-Cade, a branch store handling cameras, photographic supplies and hi-fi equipment, is expected to open in May. This is a unit of a chain which includes stores in Redding, Sacramento, and Vallejo. Gary En-gall of Fairfield will manage the Northgate store.

Hunt Quality Donuts of San Francisco will open a 1,520-square foot branch store. Owner Frank Hunt has nine other stores in San Francisco, the East Bay, and on the San Francisco peninsula. Opening date has not been set.

Woman's Ankle Broken By Car In Crosswalk

Margara W. del Pino of 133 Greenfield Avenue, San Anselmo, suffered a broken left ankle when struck by a car at 1:30 p.m. Saturday while crossing Court Street at Fifth Avenue, San Rafael, in the crosswalk. Her condition in San Rafael General Hospital was good yesterday.

Karen Adele Kollgaard of 29 Circle Road, San Rafael, was cited by the San Rafael police as driver of the car for violating the pedestrian right-of-way while making a turn eastbound along Fifth Avenue into Court Street.

"Dear Editor: I disagree"

You'll never see these words in Izvestia or Pravda. Yet they're the most meaningful any newspaper can print.

They outweigh the news of astronauts. They're more important than news of international affairs — or of the Giants.

They say more about this country than all the books on freedom. They can be written by Republicans or Democrats, ditch diggers or bank presidents, old men or children . . . by anyone, on any subject, at any time.

And they are printed . . . free.

In the Independent-Journal, this forum for all shades of opinion is called, "What Our Readers Say." Some opinions challenge us for our stand on an issue; some agree with us; others offer new approaches to a problem.

More important than any view, of course, (ours included) is the right to express it. This is why your "Letter to the Editor" is a vital document.

And it is why we at the I-J regard these public columns as something more than a newspaper tradition. Through black type and white paper they build the strongest barricade around the right to free and personal expression.

Fairfax Council Will Consider Cascade Protests

A petition with 29 signatures citing "the intolerable conditions of Cascade Drive" will be considered by the Fairfax City Council at today's 8 p.m. meeting.

Residents of the area, in the petition, claim that Cascade Drive presents "a real danger to children" from cars trying to avoid "large potholes, crevasses, projections and other hazards."

The city's solution of "a scattered application of loose gravel and dirt in some of the larger potholes . . . lasted less than a week," residents claim.

The council will consider appointment of a street superintendent. Police Sgt. William Dooley and recreation commissioner Frank Salvisberg were the only two of 10 applicants to pass the written examination, according to Police Chief James Orr.

The final reading of an ordinance limiting the keeping of cats is scheduled for 8 p.m.

The fighting in the remote borderlands of the high Himalayas directly involves 40 per cent of the world population. One out of every four members of the human race lives in Communist China; one out of seven lives in India.

NEW MG SEDAN — This addition to the British Motor Corp. line is now available at E. F. Sweeney British Cars, San Rafael. It features a transverse-mounted engine with front wheel drive, new suspension system and has an overall length of 147 inches.

MARIN BUSINESS And INDUSTRY

By HARRY CRAFT

Real Estate Multiple Listing Figures Show Great Increase

The fact that Marin real estate sales have gone up in the last five years is not startling news, but how spectacular that increase has been is brought out by multiple listing figures for 1958 through 1962 just released by the Marin County Real Estate Board.

Dollar volume of completed and closed sales climbed 113 per cent. The 1962 total was $43,056,418. While this partly was due to higher prices, the number of annual sales rose more than 55 per cent. A jump of more than 25 per cent in dollar volume was recorded in 1961-62, almost 16 per cent in number of sales.

The ensuing year may well provide even more impressive gains. Board manager Dan Deedy notes that January sales are well above the usual showing for the first month of the year and comparable to mid-year sales. President Paul Crowley is spurring realtors to make the next annual leap a full one-third higher.

MOTORCRAFT. Scripture Oldsmobile, San Rafael, has furnished San Rafael High School with a new Olds 88 four-door hardtop for its driver training program . . . Ernie Joe, dealer for J and B Ford Sales, Mill Valley, has recently completed the Ford Marketing Institute's course in dealer management . . . Annex Motors, San Rafael, notes that new Volvos now furnish seat belts at no extra cost—can be unfastened with one hand . . .

E. F. SWEENEY BRITISH CARS. San Rafael, announces that it is now stocked with new MG four-door sedans. The car features a space-saving, transversely mounted, four-cylinder engine with front-wheel drive. The engine develops 55 horsepower and is fitted with twin carburetors.

Featured is a unique suspension system called "Hydrostatic," after its components—a springlike rubber cylinder filled with a mixture of water and antifreeze at each wheel. The MG sedan carries a price tag of $1,898 (East Coast port of entry).

FENCING as an aid to feminine grace and figure control is being introduced at the John Robert Powers School of Personal Improvement in San Rafael. Program will be headed by Ann Shea, experienced in competition and teaching. Says director Mrs. Ava Olds: "It's one more course designed to teach each individual to make the most of her potential—from teen to queen of the home."

W. P. FULLER AND CO., auto glass dealers, will move from 915 Lincoln Avenue to 48 Hoag Street, San Rafael, this weekend. The firm expects to be completely installed Feb. 20.

ED NORDMANN, who has operated San Anselmo Paint Center for the past six years, specializing in paint sales, will expand his business as a contractor. He was a contractor before he bought the store.

CORTE MADERA district manager Milton M. Cerf for Equitable Life Assurance, has been named an award winner by his company for recruiting and training new agents and for personal outstanding achievements.

To Show Paintings

Mill Valley artist William Wiley will show his series of five paintings entitled "Columbus Re-routed" at a San Francisco Art Institute exhibit from today through March 1. The gallery at 800 Chestnut Street is open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Tense Nerves Block Bowels

New laxative acts on colonic muscles...de-constipates overnight.

The muscular wall of your colon contains nerves known to medicine as Auerbach's Plexus. In regular people, these nerves tell the colon muscles to propel and expel waste from the body. But tense nerves or emotional upset can block your normal bowel habits. Your colon muscle impulses are no longer strong enough to eliminate waste—which dries and shrinks, further aggravating the condition. The most effective relief, many doctors say, comes from a bulking action combined with a colonic nerve stimulating action. Of all leading laxatives

She was born with cerebral palsy and is representative of the aid received by crippled children throughout the United States as result of an annual Easter Seal Appeal which this year opens March 7 and continues through April 14, Easter Sunday. At the right is Tommy Shroeder, 3, of Lombard, Ill., who was born with a crippling condition and was unable to sit up until after treatment. Tommy has been chosen 1963 National Easter Seal Poster Child.

Pilots May Become Jobless Astronauts

By ALVIN B. WEBB JR.

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI)—A half-dozen young jet pilots stand a good chance of becoming the world's first unemployed astronauts.

These are the men chosen last year for the Air Force's Dyna-Soar space glider program.

They are ready to take a ride through space anytime. The trouble is, their space flyer isn't finished. It won't be for another two or three years.

And if Air Force enthusiasm for the project — sometimes called simply the X-20—continues to wane at the present rate, it may never be.

The Air Force, it seems, has a roving eye for attractive man-in-space programs. About the time it seems ready to latch onto one, another good-looking appears. The chase begins anew.

This has been going on for years and the Air Force is still grounded, as far as manned space flights are concerned.

The Air Force's infatuation with project Dyna-Soar began when the space age was born in 1957. The object of the whole thing was to put an astronaut into space aboard a ship with a set of wings so he could come down and land more or less where he pleased.

It looked good on paper. But there were some problems—no rockets, for one—and the Air Force lost interest. It had been caught up in a fascinating project called Mercury.

The Mercury capsule simplified things. It had no wings and thus saved a lot of weight. True, its landing was a little erratic and thousands of men had to run around under it like so many firemen with a big net, to make sure the capsule and astronaut were recovered safely.

But it worked, as the Air Force could see—from the outside looking in. Mercury belonged to a new organization called the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

About two years ago, the Air Force reunited with Dyna-Soar. Enthusiasm ran high. A model was built, and it looked like a flyable flat-iron. A new rocket called Titan-3 was put on the development list (and a tentative 1965 launching date was picked).

Even astronauts were selected—Maj. James W. Wood of Pueblo, Colo., Maj. Henry C. Gordon of Gary, Ind., Capt. William J. Knight of Mansfield, Ohio, Maj. Russell L. Rogers of Phoenix, Ariz., Capt. Albert R. Crews of Alexandria, La., and civilian Milton O. Thompson of Crookston, Minn.

Dyna-Soar rolled along until the federal space agency showed up with a new baby called Gemini. It was a space capsule ala Mercury, only more of it—enough room for two astronauts at a time.

The Air Force cast covetous eyes. And when the federal space agency indicated late last year it might like to pull at least partially out of Gemini to concentrate more on the Apollo manned flight to the moon, the military boys leaped.

What the Air Force proposed was to buy as many as seven Gemini capsules, to launch its own astronauts. Someone even went so far as to tag it with the rather odd name of "Blue Gemini."

If all this comes about, the Air Force and Gemini may be tied together starting in 1964. But it can't finance two loves at once, Dyna-Soar may—and probably will—go.

America's astronauts unanimously describe space flights a pleasure. There's room for argument there if a man is finicky about having his stomach shoved against his backbone everytime he takes off and lands.

This is one advantage the winged type of spaceship such as Dyna-Soar would have over the capsule-like Mercury and Gemini. One scientist said a Dyna-Soar pilot would face no more stresses on landing than does the pilot of a commercial jet airplane.

By contrast, a landing in a space capsule subjects the passenger to a crushing force six times or more greater than his own weight.

To most people, this probably wouldn't be particularly harmful. But it would detract from what otherwise might be considered a relaxed jaunt through space.

School Building Study Plan

Another building study proposal, this one with an "up to $11,000" price tag, will be presented to the San Rafael Board of Education at its meeting at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in the city school administration building.

The proposal is for a space utilization study of San Rafael and Terra Linda High Schools and the school administration building, presented by Walter C. Jacobs, president of Space Utilization Analysts, Inc., a Los Angeles firm.

Supt. Bert C. Corona in a communication to the board says "the staff feels that a thorough analysis of our facilities should be undertaken to determine levels of utilization.

Motor Is Stolen

Theft of a 55-horsepower Mercury outboard motor, two life jackets and eight spark plugs was reported Friday to San Rafael police by John R. DeMuth of 355 Canal Street, San Rafael. DeMuth said the items, valued at $650, were stolen between Feb. 5 and 7 from his carport.

educational balance, and rehabilitation potentials."

Architect Carl F. Gromme, who designed Terra Linda High, has already been given the go-ahead to plan remodeling and adding to San Rafael High. However, Jacob's letter says: "Should the board of education desire, we will prepare, in joint effort with Whitlow, Hoffman and Albritton of San Rafael, all necessary alteration drawings for rehabilitating San Rafael High School and for

High School Band

Festival Set Feb. 17

Six Marin County high schools will participate in a high school band festival Feb. 17 at 3 p.m. in the Terra Linda High School gymnasium under the sponsorship of the San Rafael Schools Music Department.

Bands from Tamalpais, Sir Francis Drake, Redwood, Novato, Terra Linda and San Rafael high schools will each perform for 15 minutes. This will be the first time that bands from the six high schools will play together.

modifications, where necessary of Terra Linda High School and the central office facilities." Whitlow, Hoffman and Albritton is a San Rafael firm licensed as structural engineers, which license covers architectural work.

For the plans, Jacobs adds, the fee would be 4¼ per cent of the total cost of the jobs. This would be in addition to a fee for the study which would be two and one-half times the payroll of staff engaged or $10,000, whichever is lesser, plus $1,000 for printed reports and travel expenses.
